Sr. Manager of International Treasury Operations

We are representing a premier E-Commerce company in their search for a Sr. Manager of International Treasury Operations. The position is located in the Seattle area in the beautiful Pacific Northwest .

This individual will be expected to spend the initial part of his/her time learning all aspects of treasury within the organization, then will systematically work to improve process, enhance relationships, and drive cost savings through innovation and efficiency. The role will have a great deal of international focus, primarily as it applies to foreign exchange hedging and some international travel is possible. They are in the process of rolling out in a phased approach (as it applies to foreign exchange) with several foreign exchange focused initiatives that this individual will be heavily involved with on a go forward basis.

Ideal background will come from a Fortune 250 – 500 treasury organization – with strength in foreign exchange and general corporate treasury exposure. The Treasury group is well positioned within the company and is looking for a good athlete to add bench strength within the Treasury organization. The Treasurer is x-GE (as is the CFO) and the AT is an x-public company Treasurer – so good opportunity for mentorship as well as visibility.

The Treasury group is currently comprised of ~ 10 people with operations centralized in Seattle . This centralization allows for cross-training, visibility and development on all functional areas for virtually all of the team. The culture is focused on a results orientation and self-managed direction in a high growth environment. Strong cross functional capability and interpersonal/communication skills are a must.
